Publicity contest for women's clubs slated this year

Women's organizations in this, and the eight other Bay Area counties, are being offered a chance to receive regional recognition on television for their community service projects in a new contest being announced by the Public Affairs Department of KRON-TV.

The "Best Club Publicity Award" contest is open to any women's organization with a community service project which they publicize. Winners will be chosen on the basis of the "best possible" use made of local publicity media to publicize a community service project during the current club year (September 1965 - April 1966). Judges will be a committee of top professional publicists of the area.

The president and publicity chairman of the winning organization from each of the nine counties will appear on a KRON-TV program and will receive a film of the appearance for their club's permanent use, together with a specially designed plaque.

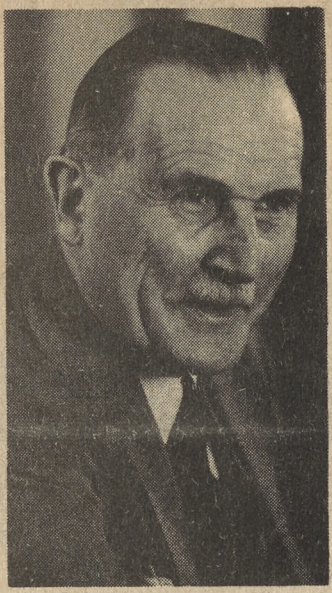

Entry forms may be obtained by writing Public Affairs Department, KRON - TV, 929 Mission St., San Francisco.

fill seats on the rooters' bus on Fridays. Our team needs support, so why not sign up now? Speaking of support, if you have never attended a wrestling match, perhaps you should attend one now. Mr. Hale, wrestling coach, is asking more student support at the matches. They are truly exciting, and the boys appreciate the attendance of sideliners.

Anita Harten, president of the Junior-Senior Foreign Languege Club, reports a profit of over $20 at the club's recent "Bake Raffle." Hopefully, more will be sponsored in the future because of the large success of this one. Anita has also said that the club is hoping to have two or more activities this year, since more money than expected was made.

FBLA members are still awaiting a shipment of the chocolate-and-almond candy they have been selling this year. Students are literally waiting in line to buy some. Miss Bothwell, advisor to the group, reports that FBLA members are gathering canned goods for a "needy family basket." If anyone would like to contribute, please bring your donation to the Business Department.

Dr. Karl Meyer to tell about stay in Russia

Dr. Karl F. Meyer, Professor Emeritus of Hooper Foundation, University of California, will discuss his recent trip to Russia, which was made at the invitation of the Health Institute of Russia, at the Sonoma Community Center on Friday night, January 28.

This extensive trip included northwestern Russia as well as the area in southeastern Russia. Dr. Meyer's color photography, his intimate contacts and his former official visits, offer the people of Sonoma Valley a rare opportunity to see this picture, and to hear the latest chapter of Russian development.

This is an occasion that warrants an audience which will insure a "standing room only" attendance.

IOMA VALLEY

Lines Written Near San Francisco

This is one of the poems by Louis Simpson included in "At the End of the Open Road," for which he won a Pulitzer Prize.

By LOUIS SIMPSON

I WAKE and feel the city trembling.
Yes, there is something unsettled in the air
And the earth is uncertain.

And so it was for the tenor Caruso.
He couldn't sleep—you know how the ovation
Rings in your ears, and you re-sing your part.

And then the ceiling trembled
And the floor moved. He ran into the street.
Never had Naples given him such a reception!

The air was darker than Vesuvius.
"O mamma mia,"
He cried, "I've lost my voice!"

At that moment the hideous voice of Culture,
Hysterial woman, thrashing her arms and legs,
Shrieked from the ruins.

At that moment everyone became a performer.
Otello and Don Giovianni
And Figaro strode on the midmost stage.

In the high window of a burning castle
Lucia raved. Black horses
Plunged through fire, dragging the wild bells.

The curtains were wrapped in smoke. Tin swords
Were melting; masks and ruffs
Burned—and the costumes of the peasants' chorus.

Night fell. The white moon rose
And sank in the Pacific. The tremors
Passed under the waves. And Death rested.

NOW, AS we stand idle,
Watching the silent, bowler-hatted man,
The engineer, who writes in the smoking field;

Now as he hands the paper to a boy,
Who takes it and runs to a group of waiting men,
And they disperse and move toward their wagons,

Mules bray and the wagons move—
Wait! Before you start
(Already the wheels are rattling on the stones)

Say, did your fathers cross the dry Sierras
To build another London?
Do Americans always have to be second-rate?

Wait! For there are spirits
In the earth itself, or the air, or sea.
Where are the aboriginal American devils?

Cloud shadows, pine shadows
Falling across the bright Pacific bay . . .
(Already they have nailed rough boards together)

Wait only for the wind
That rustles in the eucalyptus tree.
Wait only for the light

That trembles on the petals of a rose.
(The mortar sets—banks are the first to stand)
Wait for a rose, and you may wait forever.

The silent man mops his head and drinks
Cold lemonade. "San Francisco
Is a city second only to Paris."

EVERY NIGHT, at the end of America
We taste our wine, looking at the Pacific.
How sad it is, the end of America!

While we were waiting for the land
They'd finished it—with gas drums
On the hilltops, cheap housing in the valleys

Where lives are mean and wretched.
But the banks thrive and the realtors
Rejoice—they have their America.

Still, there is something unsettled in the air.
Out there on the Pacific
There's no America but the Marines.

Whitman was wrong about the People,
But right about himself. The land is within.
At the end of the open road we come to ourselves.

Though mad Columbus follows the sun
Into the sea, we cannot follow.
We must remain, to serve the returning sun,

And to set tables for death.
For we are the colonists of Death—
Not, as some think, of the English.

And we are preparing thrones for him to sit,
Poems to read, and beds
In which it may please him to rest.

This is the land
The pioneers looked for, shading their eyes
Against the sun—a murmur of serious life.

New Social Planning Head

Executive an 'East Meets West' Product

Paul Akana, a man who was drafted for military service by both the U.S. and Japan in 1941, is the new executive director of the recently-organized Bays Area Council for Social Planning.

He is an "East MEETS West" product who traces his lineage to Japanese samurai on one side, and to Declaration of Independence signer Roger Sherman on the other.

Akana's father was a young lawyer in Tokyo learning English from an American girl missionary—who converted him to Christianity and whom he married.

AKANA SR. joined the Japanese consular service at the end of World War I. Paul was born in Los Angeles while his father was attending the Versailles Peace Conference.

Later the parents were divorced; the mother took Paul back to Japan where he grew up while she served again as a missionary.

He came to the U.S. as a student at Andover Academy when he was 14. When he received his two draft notices, he chose his mother's country and served in Italy with the famed 442nd Infantry Combat Team, the Japanese-American regiment.

AKANA graduated from New York University and won a master's degree at Columbia University School of Social Work. He has taught at Indiana University, and comes here from the post of associate executive director of the Health and Welfare Association in Pittaburgh, Pa.

His job with the new council here will be to unify Bay Area counties' planning in health, welfare, youth services and recreation.

but I esteem him as a patriot.

"I know Americans and President Johnson would like peace in Vietnam," Minh said, "but they are scared of Communist domination. So they must let us try to do something by ourselves. That is the only way to save southeast Asia from Communist domination, never with guns. The Viet Cong are smart enough to fight that way indefinitely."

Now there are two chest rubs for colds.

The old-fashioned greasy type.

And our new decongestant cream.

Why didn't someone do this before: make a great chest rub that isn't greasy! Now Ben-Gay has. It's actually a cream that won't mess up pajamas. It will help your child sleep all night and breathe easier. (Adults, too.) Try new Ben-Gay® Vaporizing Rub on the next cold that hits your family. It's great, and it's greaseless.

Report No. 1; to the general assembly of the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club.

Meeting held in the Sonoma Community Center, Tuesday December 22, 1965 at 8:00PM
Attending: Mrs Otho G Crawford, pres., Mrs D E Bradfield, first V/P.

1. A historic background is necessary, for its possible entry in the Sears-Roebuck Foundation Achievement Award, through the sponsorship of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. We need to know, when the Sonoma Community Center was formed, By whom it was formed; how it was formed; why it was formed and the community need for it. Since the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club, does not have the necessary information, it is necessary the board of directors of the Community Center supply this club with all information necessary, with publicity clips to support admissions, since here-say, cannot be used, even if these here-says are supported with an affidavite (it could be anybody's say-so supportingit).

2. There must be a plan prepared for the improvement of the Sonoma Community Center. (Professional advice used)

a. The building having been declared unsafe for public school use (Riley Act-Building Code)

It must de determined by a building inspector in writing, how safe is it for public use. This is a big obstacle, since this building must be about 50 years old. How can this building be utilized under safe conditions.

b. Appeal to a philanthropic minded building architect, to drawn future plans of entire inside, showing how improvements made be made, to correct present conditions, to enhance the look through interior decorating., to meet with the demand of today, and perhaps the look of tomorrow.

c. Appeal to a philanthropic minded landscape arthitect, to drawn plans of the grounds, providing for proper parking, shade trees and beautifying the grounds. A beautiful patio and a barbecue shelter, could be planned in keeping with the spannish theme, with Sonoma's historic background. With proper lighting system.

D. These drawn plans would have to be approved by the Sonoma Community Center's board of directors. Professional members of the board must appeal to these philantropic architects, keeping in mind that this is a community involvement and there ahould be no exchange of money, but co-operation.

e. With the approval by the Sonoma Community Center's, board of directors; of plans etc; there should be someone representing the Sonoma Community Center, board of directors and someone representing the Sonoma Valley

Woman's Club, executive board, presenting the need of the Sonoma Community Center, the cooperation of organizational support for this program, and to appeal to their generous supporting nature, to see if they would be able to undertake a certain phase of either the building or the ground landscaping plan, to carry out the plan and follow it through. All organizations would have to be approached, publicity followed, with full reports.

f. Keeping in mind that should this project win an award, whether it is $10,000 or smaller, the tremendous impact it can have on the local citizenry, this property with all these improvements would not be worth todays market price but it can be worth ~~$100~~ $100,000.00 plus. It becomes an asset to the community not a detriment, plus the pride to all organizations.

g. This project must be spearheaded by the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club through the cooperation of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, under the Sears Roebuck Foundation Achievement Award Program. All reporting must be made by the chairman of Community ~~Improv~~ Improvement Program, with assistance if necessary, but this must be a community involvement of all organizations and not the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club, membership alone.

Mrs Archs g. Crawford.
